Toyota GT86 Thunder Grey Limited Edition – number 2 of only 5 examples

Sometimes, a sports car is about more than just performance figures. Sometimes, it is about balance, pure driving pleasure, rarity and originality. This Toyota GT86 Thunder Grey Limited Edition brings all of those qualities together in one very special package. This car is number 2 of only 5 numbered examples, produced especially for the Belgian market – an exceptionally rare version of a model that has already earned its place among enthusiasts of compact, lightweight and analogue sports cars.

The GT86 was developed according to a classic sports car recipe: a naturally aspirated boxer engine at the front, rear-wheel drive, a low centre of gravity and a perfectly balanced chassis. No excessive power, no artificial driving experience – just genuine steering feel, balance and driver involvement. This is precisely why the GT86 is appreciated by connoisseurs as one of the last true driver's cars in its segment.

This Thunder Grey Limited Edition stands out thanks to its exclusive Thunder Grey paintwork, specific striping on the flanks and bonnet, aluminium rear spoiler, 17-inch alloy wheels and refined Alcantara interior. Its numbered production makes this example even more special: not just another GT86, but one of the rarest Belgian versions of the model.

One of the key technical highlights of this edition is the fitment of Brembo brakes front and rear. These not only give the GT86 a sportier appearance, but above all provide stronger braking performance, improved pedal feel and greater confidence during dynamic driving. Combined with the lightweight chassis and precise steering, they make the Thunder Grey a particularly well-balanced sports coupé: playful when desired, yet always controllable and communicative.

This example is also a true enthusiast's car. It is an original Belgian-delivered car, completely accident-free and still wearing its first paint. The car has remained fully original, with no modifications, tuning or track use. It has been dealer-maintained and comes with its service history. It has also recently been fitted with new brakes, while the paintwork has just been protected with a new coating, leaving the car in particularly well-cared-for condition.

The combination of its extremely limited production number, numbered edition, original condition and correct history makes this Toyota GT86 Thunder Grey Limited Edition an exceptionally interesting example. For anyone looking for a pure, analogue sports car with future collector potential, this is a very special opportunity.

A rare GT86 for the true enthusiast: original, accident-free, properly maintained and ready to be enjoyed – while at the same time being a future collector's item.
