Triumph TR2 – Body-off restored – Originally delivered in Belgium – Heritage Trust Certificate

This beautiful Triumph TR2 is a wonderful example of one of the purest and most characterful British roadsters of the 1950s. The TR2 marked the beginning of Triumph's legendary sports car line and quickly became loved for its strong engine, low weight, simple mechanical layout and distinctly sporty driving experience. Today, a correctly restored example with attractive history is a highly sought-after classic.

This particular car has recently undergone a full body-off restoration, with no compromises made. The restoration has just been completed and includes, among other works, a complete engine rebuild, gearbox rebuild, new brakes, renewed suspension, a new interior and numerous technical and cosmetic improvements. The result is a TR2 that not only presents beautifully, but is also mechanically ready for many years of driving pleasure.

The British Racing Green exterior suits the sporting character of this Triumph perfectly. Combined with the black leather interior with white piping, the green carpets and the elegant chrome wire wheels, the car has exactly the right classic British atmosphere. The overall presentation is stylish, authentic and particularly tasteful.

An important additional asset is that this is an original Belgian-delivered car. The accompanying Heritage Trust Certificate is present and confirms the car's origin and specifications. In addition, a complete restoration file is available, including photos and invoices, nicely documenting the quality and extent of the work carried out.

This Triumph TR2 combines the charm of an early British roadster with the reassurance of a recent and thorough restoration. It is a car for the enthusiast looking for an authentic classic with presence, history and driving pleasure. Ideal for rallies, classic tours or simply enjoying open-top motoring as it was originally intended: pure, mechanical and full of character.
